Dear Friends of Second Church,

As many local kids enjoy their very last day of summer vacation, and I-95 promises to become navigable once again on Fridays after 2 p.m., it is time to give thanks for the season and to turn our sights toward the fall.

And if that seems too soon, this afternoon, Starbucks was kind enough to email me to let me know that Pumpkin Spice is now back, which is as official a start to a new season as any arcane discussion of astronomy.

Next week, the tent will go up, and the weekend after Labor Day will be full of activities designed to lure you and your family back to campus.

Some years, the summer seems destined to go down in history — if only our own history.

Other years seem quieter, with rewards that can be harder to explain.

“What did you do this summer?”

Some years it’s “Climbed Mount Kilimanjaro” or “Went to a big family reunion” or “Started a new job.”

Or maybe its more like: “Walked dogs in the early morning before it was too hot....read some good stuff....drank a lot of lemonade.”

Whatever it was or wasn’t, may these last few days be blessed.

Come tell us what you’ve been up to.

See you in church,
